It's Not Just About Perio Anymore

Patients come to us with more than calculus and cavities. Oral manifestations may be the first sign of a systemic disease. Inflammatory diseases, mental health, chronic pain and the resulting medications require us to be health care providers -- to look further than the usual to treat our patients appropriately.

By the year 2010 an estimated 23% of the population will be dealing with chronic pain. The aging population, sports injuries and the prevalence of orthopedic surgeries brings about a population living with special considerations for dental intervention. Learn to identify the oral signs of systemic conditions and gain tools to help your patients understand the mouth - body connection.

About the speaker

Lory Laughter has been a practicing dental hygienist since her graduation from Idaho State University in 1994. Today she has a variety of career roles including private practice, speaking, writing and event planning. Lory is a Hygiene Specialist for OraPharma -- the makers of Arestin. She holds a consulting position with Nuvora Inc. and participates in Hygiene Department consulting with Kathleen Johnson consulting.

Her monthly column in RDH Magazine "From the Edge" delves into the dark corners of the profession and brings them to light. Her drive to bring every dental hygienist into the 21st century makes Lory's passionate column a must read for dental professionals.

Lory is the founder and owner of Dental IQ - a business committed to providing quality continuing education to the entire dental team. Dental IQ hosts the Annual Napa Dental Experience which has grown to become a popular national meeting drawing nationally recognized speakers and international attendees.
